Another Publisher Paid $20 for Suppressing Ekern's Defense Against Charges

TREMPEALEAU, Wis., Oct. 5.—(Special.)—Discovery proceedings under Sec. 4096, Revised Statutes, have been begun by Herman L. Ekern, speaker of the Wisconsin assembly, against the Arcadia Leader and Albert Heff, its publisher, for the purpose of obtaining information upon which to base a suit for libel to be preferred by Mr. Ekern. A subpoena duces tecum has been issued against the checks and records of the publisher, it being presumed that the object is to substantiate the claim that at least one man of great prominence in the county was involved with the newspaper in the libel. The hearing will begin tomorrow before Court Commissioner Gibson. At Trempealeau, the suit growing out of the recent primary campaign in which Twesme defeated Ekern for the assembly nomination.

The Alleged Libel
The principal allegation serving as a basis of the suit is that, through the influence of politicians hostile to Ekern, the newspaper libeled him by the publication of charges that Ekern had been the recipient of a check for $1,000 from Senator Isaac Stephenson for corrupt purposes, the inference being that the speaker had been involved in a reprehensible deal, and the result of the publication being to damage Ekern's reputation and cause his defeat by Twesme.

Deal Was Legitimate
This check, plaintiff says, was given to him by Senator Stephenson as a contribution to Senator La Follette's recent presidential campaign, was received by him as such, was turned over to the treasurer of the campaign by him, and was devoted to the legitimate pursuits of that campaign.

Old Puzzle Solved
The foregoing answers a question that perplexed political circles during the La Follette presidential campaign. It was said in some quarters that Senator Stephenson contributed to the expense of that campaign while from other sources came denials coupled with the assertion that the senator's money was offered and rejected. It seems that the senator did contribute, modestly, and that his money was used.

To Probe Whole Program.
It is expected further, that the discovery proceedings will uncover some "hot stuff" in relation to the Twesme campaign, the inference being lent that so freely was misrepresentation and trickery indulged in as to vitiate the primary, prevent a fair choice by the people of a representative candidate, and to justify repudiation of the primary, and the independent candidacy of Mr. Ekern.

Methods Illuminated.
The alleged obnoxious character of the anti-Ekern program is illustrated by a story, not identified with the present suit, but said to be characteristic of the movement. It is asserted that Speaker Ekern had submitted to a certain newspaper other than the one against which suit now pending, a statement for publication intended to dissipate certain erroneous and damaging impressions created by misrepresentations of Ekern's foes. The copy had been accepted, and the matter was in type, when a prominent anti-Ekern man, whose name it is said will later be divulged, entered the newspaper office and offered the publisher $20 to decline to publish.

COMPARATIVE STUDY OF THE HEADS OF SENATORS ALDRICH AND LA FOLLETTE

No more interesting or contrasting figures are to be seen in the senate chamber than Nelson W. Aldrich and Senator La Follette. Each is the leader of factions continually warring against one another. It is interesting to note the characteristics in the cranial development of the two men.

Nelson W. Aldrich.

Cool conservatism marks the head of Nelson W. Aldrich. He is not a man to be easily moved by outside influences, and it will take a powerful opponent to knock him off his count, or to put him out of his depth.

Far sightedness is a strong characteristic of his, and it requires a smart reasoner to beat him on his own ground. He must be known for shrewdness that covers much thought and preparation. Few men can cover the ground that he can in work, and few are equal to him in sagacity and tact. He is a perceptive man, and has keen sensibilities.

An iron will rules course in life, and dominates his actions. His power of penetration is wonderful.

'FRISCO THROGGED WITH DELEGATES

TRANS-MISSISSIPPI CONGRESS OWNS THE CITY

ORGANIZATION ONLY TODAY

First Session Fully Occupied With Affairs Preliminary to Real Work of Convention

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 6.—With the subject of a larger navy in the Pacific ocean and increased fortifications on the Pacific coast and in Hawaii and the Philippines uppermost in the minds of every delegate, the 19th annual session of the Trans-Mississippi Commercial Congress was called to order in the Drexel hall at 10 o'clock here today.

Over 1500 delegates, the largest portion of whom came from the Pacific coast states and across the ocean, thronged the big auditorium when Thos. F. Walsh of Denver, chairman of the executive committee, rapped for order.

The delegates were seated under state banners and the hall was elaborately decorated with the stars and stripes and the California bear flag, with flowers strewn in profusion about the rostrum and the gallery.

Dr. Bradford Leavitt of San Francisco opened the congress with an invocation and then Chairman Walsh delivered the gavel to Pres. J. B. Case of Abelen, Kans., who is to preside over the congress during its five days' deliberations.

The greatest portion of today's session was taken up with speeches of welcome and the work of organization and the delegates will not get down to actual work until tomorrow morning.

HALED IN COURT ON WEDDING DAY

CELIA MORZ CHARGED WITH THEFT OF WEDDING THINGS

WEDDING FINERY STOLEN

Such is Charge Which Lands Bride-to-be Before Court of Justice Instead of Before an Altar

A girl's desire for nice wedding things landed Miss Celia Morz, a 17-year-old Polish girl in jail. She has been employed at the poor farm and appropriated a silk waist, some pretty ribbons, a hand made dolly, and other little articles that appeared to her fancy together with $7.50 in money. Now the question that is confronting County Judge John Brindley is whether Celia should be allowed to marry, should she be sent to the reform school or be given a sentence in the La Crosse county jail.

Fairly good looking, and with very little education she has been employed at the county poor farm where her work has been satisfactory. A short time ago a party of Polish immigrants came to this country and landing in La Crosse took rooms at the American house. Soon after their arrival they began to make inquiries as to where they could obtain wives and being informed that there were some girls of their own nationality employed at the poor farm, they immediately set out to capture the hearts of the maidens. They went to the farm and were officially introduced and set about the matter of courting as pursued in their native land. They sang, danced, played on various instruments and one big fellow, whose first name was "George," captured the heart of Celia Morz. It was plainly a case of love at first sight.

GIANTS-CUB GAME PRONOUNCED A TIE BY THE DIRECTORS

OPENS UP PENNANT RACE OF NATIONALS

GIANTS ARE THE DICTATORS

AT COMMAND OF BRUSH MURPHY MUST GO EAST

SCENE AT POLO GROUNDS

If Giants Go West Great Duel Will be Fought There—Sox Wage Last Great Fight

The Detroit-Chicago game was 4 to 0 in favor of Detroit in the first inning.

CINCINNATI, Oct. 6.—The directors of the National league declared that the disputed Cubs and Giants game was a tie. It must be replayed on the Polo grounds if New York desires.

The directors met at 1:30 this afternoon. Chicago's demand for forfeiture was set aside. The New York club is to be the sole judge as to whether the game will be played.

The pennant race in the National league is thrown open again by the decision, as it allows the Giants to lose one of the two remaining games with Boston and still become the champions. If they win two games they will tie with the Cubs, and then play to see who are the champions.

Following the assertion yesterday that President Brush of the Giants would seek legal redress in case of an unfavorable decision, it was today intimated that if the decision went against the Cubs Murphy would take the case to the civil courts. It is expected the decision will be handed down later in the day.

3-Cornered Tie, Maybe

If the Giants lose one game to Boston, and elect to play the disputed game and win, the Cubs, Giants and Pittsburgh will be tied for first place. Then a series of nine games will be played, three between each pair of teams. Never before has there been such a tangle in the championship fight in either league. The directors of the league, which will decide the game, made the replaying then impossible since the league rules gave 5 days to answer. Since the game was decided a tie in spite of the contest, the directors ruled that New York had the right to have it played off.

May Play It Off.

CHICAGO, Oct. 6.—Capt. Chance of the Cubs, when informed this afternoon of the decision of the national directors, said he had made no preparations for taking the club to New York to play off the tie. He will do nothing in the matter until he hears from Murphy, who is attending the meetings at Cincinnati. The Cubs, however, are ready to go and play if Murphy and the Giants insist.

Giants Are Confident.

NEW YORK, Oct. 6.—The New York Giants are confident they will be able to trim Boston for the two remaining games. The club will put up the fight of their lives to win. They then only tie Chicago for first place, unless the National director will give them the contested game.

Sox Wage Great Battle.

CHICAGO, Oct. 6.—The greatest battle in the American League is what the fans expect today when the Sox and Tigers meet for the last game of the season, which will decide the championship. The players on both sides are confident, and the managers, with no next day game to consider, will be able to shift the players about, and both will use every effort to win.

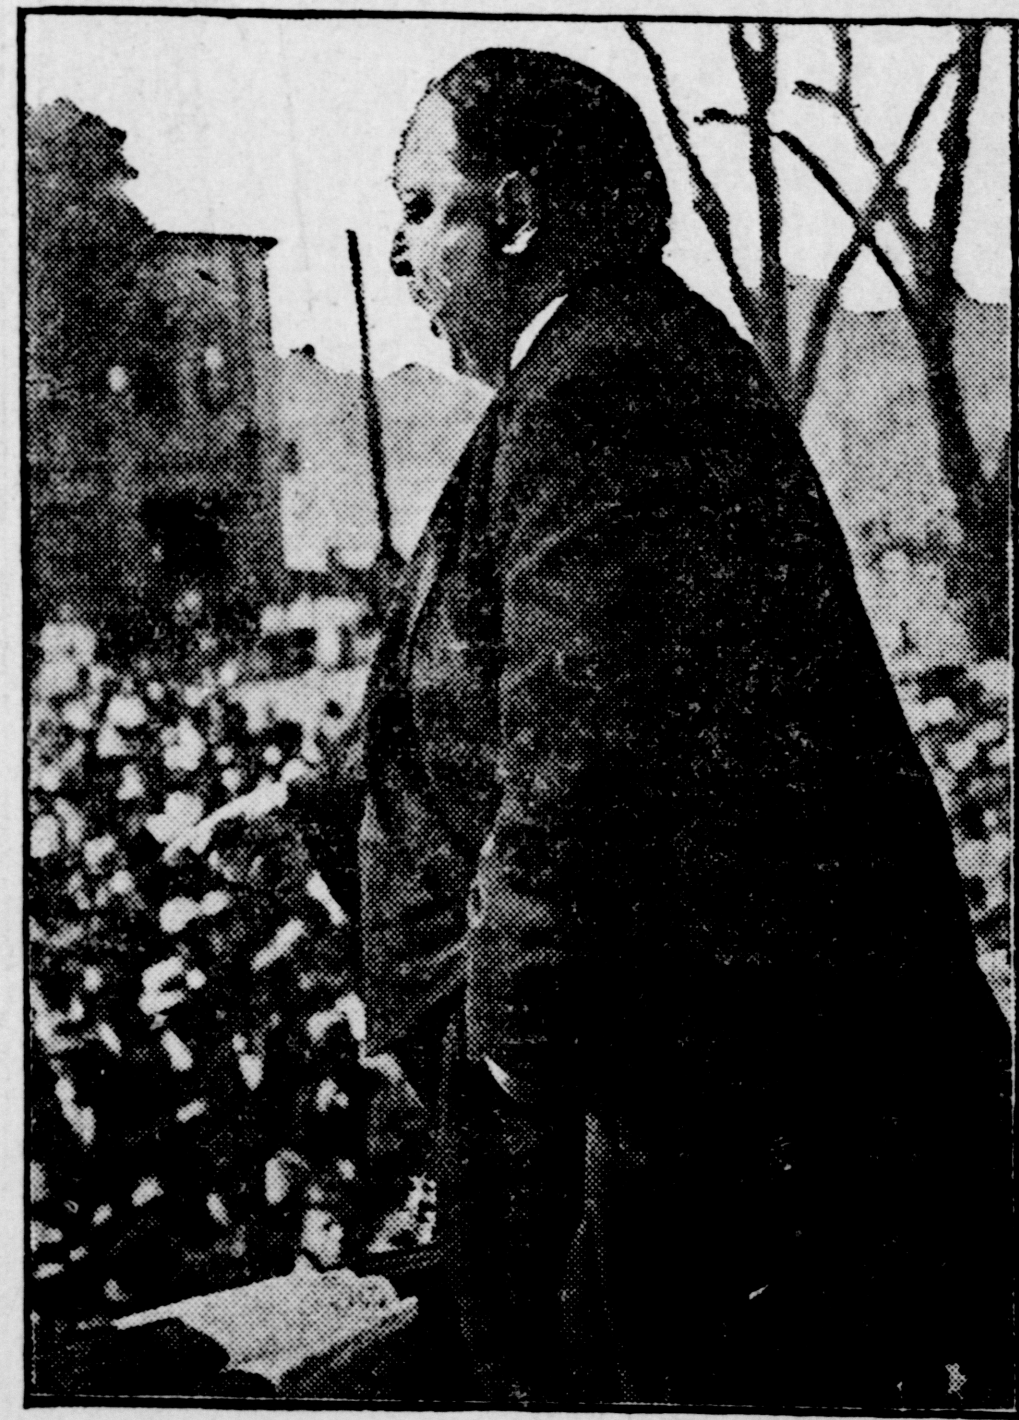

Early this morning not a seat at the park was to be had, and hundreds of fans lined up on the streets before the ticket windows waiting for the opening of the grounds so they could reach the bleachers and get standing room on the grounds.

BIG DEMOCRATS COMING HERE

County Chairman John Doherty has received word from the state democratic committee that they have secured the services of a number of speakers to talk in Wisconsin during the democratic campaign. The speakers that have been secured are as follows: Alton B. Parker, Bourke Cochrane, John Sharp Williams and Governor Johnson of Minnesota. Undoubtedly some and possibly all of these prominent speakers will deliver addresses here in the near future, the dates of which will be given out later.

Chairman Doherty and Professor Schubert will open the campaign in Bangor this evening and a democratic club will be organized there.

BEEBLE WINS AND ABBOTT IS OUT

JUDGE LUECK DECLINES TO ISSUE INJUNCTION

FAILS TO MAKE OUT CASE

Positive Allegations of Abbott Still Leave Opponent With a Majority of Seven Votes

MADISON, Wis., Oct. 6.—(Special.)—Judge M. T. Lueck of Dodge county refused the petition of James E. Abbott for a temporary injunction against Secretary of State Frear, to prevent the placing of Beedle's name on the official ballot as republican candidate for insurance commissioner. This is the last step in the case and ends the long controversy. Mr. Beedle's majority remains 48.

Judge Lueck decided that Abbott had not made a sufficiently strong showing in his petition, his positive allegations indicating still a majority of seven for Beedle, and his general allegations being insufficient to warrant the issuing of an injunction to tie up the situation and start a recount of votes. The judge said he deemed it would not be a proper application of the discretion of the court to use an injunction for a purpose of this kind under the circumstances prevailing, the supreme court having said Mr. Beedle had the right to have his name placed on the ballot.

REHEARSALS FOR THE SAENGERFEST SOON

Tickets for the reproduction of the Saengerfest will be 25 and 50 cents, instead of 50 cents and $1, as erroneously announced.

President John Malin has invited the mixed chorus to a rehearsal to be conducted by Director Frey at Froh-sinn hall, corner Fourth and Jay streets, next Thursday evening at 8 o'clock.

Secretary John Utermoehl has requested members of the Liegerkranz to be present at a rehearsal at Germania hall Friday evening.

It is officially announced that the Normanna Sangerkor and the Harmonia society will take part in the entertainment.

SULTAN TO DEFER WAR DECLARATION

WILL AWAIT CONFERENCE OF POWERS ON SUBJECT

FRANZ JOSEPH PUTS IT OFF

Delays Annexation Proclamation While Army is Mobilized to Meet Any Crisis

PARIS, Oct. 6.—Heeding the advice of France and England, Sultan Abdul Hamid has decided to postpone the declaration of war against Bulgaria pending a conference with the powers.

The decision of the sultan to withhold the war declaration is considered here as an indication of a possible settlement, at least temporarily, of the trouble in the Balkans. All disinterested powers except Germany agreed on the call for a conference. The Kaiser has not yet expressed himself.

Delays Annexation.

VIENNA, Oct. 6.—In order to get his military forces in better shape and allay the fears of Hungarians who oppose the annexation of Bosnia and Herzegovina, Emperor Franz Joseph today decided to delay the annexation proclamation. Announcement of the proclamation was expected today, but after a long conference with advisors he decided not to act for a few days.

Servia and Roumania, included in the proposed Balkan federation, are today mobilizing armies under the impression that Austria will endeavor to force them into the federation and Bulgaria's control. It is understood the annexation proclamation will endeavor technically to avoid a breach of the Berlin treaty by using the word "incorporated" instead of "annexed."

An official note received by the emperor today informs him that the czar is decidedly displeased with the developments of the past 24 hours, and Russia will no longer observe the treaty of Berlin which other powers are openly violating. The note is believed to be an indication of a continental muddle. While the czar gives no idea of the move the government will make, it indicates that

COLBY, POLITICAL MYSTERY, DIRECTS JERSEY DESTINY

WELLIVER TELLS STRANGE STORY OF YOUNG PROGRESSIVE

ONLY A STATE SENATOR

BUT BOSS-DEFYING YOUTH IS PARAMOUNT ISSUE

A WINNER AT THE POLLS

Routs Corrupt Machine and a National Electoral Vote is in Balance In Popular Rebellion

(By J. C. Welliver.)
TRENTON, N. J., Oct. 5.—The purpose of the observations subsequent hereto is to explain in words of one syllable one of the greatest mysteries in American politics.

The mystery relates to the unusual and unparalleled fact that the political fortunes of a single member of a state legislature, in a great state, should be of paramount significance as related to the senatorships, the state tickets, the congressmen, and even the electoral vote of that state.

In short, it is the story of how Everett Colby happens to be the towering figure that he is in New Jersey politics.

Colby is senator from Essex county. It is only one of twenty-one counties in Jersey; he is only one of twenty-one senators in the legislature. Colby is a reformer; one of those reformers who started as regulars, and saw enough of the rottenness of regularity to make them heterodox. Colby has coin, courage and a conscience. He is the man who founded the new idea faction in Jersey, which is closely akin to the Cummins element in Iowa, the Crawford crowd in South Dakota, the Churchill uprising in New Hampshire, the Hughes manifesto in New York, the La Follette struggle in Wisconsin, the Folk uprising in Missouri.

A Pivot in State Politics
But Colby is only a modest state senator in Jersey; he has no particular following outside a single county. Yet he is a pivot in the politics of his state. Why?

The answer is really rather easy. Because in Jersey each county, large or small, has one senator; no more, no less. Essex county has nearly one-third the population of New Jersey. Its neighbor, Hudson county, has just about one-third, being rather more populous than Essex. The "new idea" started in Essex and has

TELEPHONE FINANCING

While many independent telephone companies are finding it difficult to raise money needed for extensions and improvements of their plants the statement has recently been made by no less an authority than the head of the Bell system, Mr. Theodore N. Vail, that the Bell companies have been financed as far ahead as next year. These companies, as a matter of fact, are better off than ever before. Last year they made a gain of over half a million subscribers; their gross revenue rose to a point above $114,000,000, and they have a plant uniform in character and national in extent which could not be replaced for less than $70,000,000 in excess of its first cost.

The Wisconsin Telephone Company shares in this general prosperity. In making plans for the extension of the Bell system as a whole, the needs of the Wisconsin Company have been provided for and it is consequently in a position to meet the demands on its plant due to its rapidly growing list of patrons.

CHICAGO, Oct. 6.—Chicago advanced within striking distance of the American league pennant by defeating Detroit 6 to 1, in the second game of the crucial series, while Cleveland the other contender for the flag, dropped the first game of a double header to St. Louis in the latter city.

Walsh and Summers appeared on the pitching line for the opposing teams, with Sullivan and Schmidt behind the bat. The former pitched a remarkable game and had the Detroit team at his mercy throughout the contest, while Summers, who worked hard, was hit opportunely and retired from the game in the sixth inning, giving way to Mullin, who battled for him and then finished the one sided contest.

Chicago began scoring in the second inning. Davis opened with a single over short, and Parent doubled to left. Isbell sent a single to left and scored Davis, but McIntyre's perfect throw to Schmidt caught Parent at the plate. Sullivan followed with a single to right, and Tannehill did likewise, but was caught at second when he tried to stretch it into a double. Walsh finished the inning by going out.

Chicago continued scoring in the fourth. Davis was hit by a pitched ball and went to second when Parent singled to left. Sullivan sent a hot grounder into center, which went between Crawford's legs, and Parent and Davis scored while Sullivan went to third. Tannehill flied to Schmidt and Sullivan scored when Walsh sent a long fly to McIntyre. Hahn flied to Crawford and the side was retired.

The local team added another run in the next inning. Jones hit a bouncer over Schaefer's head, went to second on Isbell's sacrifice, and scored on Davis' single to center.

Detroit made one in the sixth. Downs singled to left center. Mullin batted for Summers and fanned. McIntyre singled to right, and was forced at second by Bush, while Downs came home with the lone run. Crawford made the third out.

Mullin went in to pitch for Detroit in the sixth and retired Chicago without a hit, but in the next inning Hahn opened with a single to left and Jones fanned. Isbell fanned and Hahn stole second. Dougherty singled to center and Hahn scored. Davis finished the inning by going out.

A genuine Indian summer day greeted the players and spectators yesterday and the fans turned out by thousands. The crowd, however, was smaller than that of the preceding day, but every available seat in the stands and bleachers was occupied an hour before the contest began. The gates were opened at 12:30 p. m. and the crowd which had been patiently waiting for several hours on the outside began to rush through the gates. An hour before play began the crowd was so large in the stands that the police took positions about the field and the people were seated along the first and third base lines, and at the outskirts of the field.

Ground rules were established, making a hit into the crowd good for two bases, but there was no occasion for this. It is probable that White will oppose Donovan in the game today.

TREMPEALEAU TEAM DEFEATS GALESVILLE

TREMPEALEAU, Wis., Oct. 6.—In a fast exciting game of football, played on the local grounds, Saturday, the high school eleven defeated the Galeville team by a score of 18 to 5.

In the first half Trempealeau scored a touchdown in the first few minutes of play, through the clever playing of Quarterback Kuffe and an excellent end run by Right End Kutchira. Galeville also scored a touchdown in the first half, Ferrand making a long run on a recovered fumble.

In the second half the playing was nearly all done on Galeville's territory. The clever line plunging of Fullback Holmes and Halfbacks G. Atwood and F. Atwood brought two more touchdowns in the last half. Although the Trempealeau team is not very heavy, it is shifty, and all men are very clever.

SCRUBS SCORE ON VARSITY

MADISON, Wis., Oct. 6.—In the first scrimmage of the season at Camp Randall the varsity eleven defeated a strong second team by a score of 11 to 6. Osthoff went over the line for the first touchdown on a tackle play three minutes after the start, and Biddy Rogers kicked goal. Buddy Culver, fullback, scored for the second eleven after plunging through the varsity and running fifty yards.

SPOTLIGHTS

It Was a Laugh

The Norwoods, hypnotists, delighted another audience at the La Crosse theater last night. Their entertainment is good and they are putting on a number of new and original tests in hypnotism. The special feature of last night's entertainment was the Indian war dance, a stunt that reminded a good many of the olden days when the Indians had sway in this country. The tests in thought transference were also very interesting as well as instructive and to those who are interested in these phenomena this little test is very interesting indeed. The Norwoods seem to be making good and indications point to a fine week's business for them.

An entire change of program will be given tonight, the feature of which will be the hypnotic stump speeches.

At the Bijou.

Notwithstanding the rainy weather last night vaudevilleans turned out en masse to greet the excellent program at the Bijou with two bumper houses. Interest in the bill was stimulated by the fact that the acts are entirely different from those presented heretofore.

As a special feature Messrs. Walter Goetzinger and Carl Rudolph rendered Rossini's great tone-painting and masterpiece, "William Tell." Two pianos, drums, cello and organ were used. The two artists did full justice to the theme and received the hearty applause of the music-loving patrons. This special feature should be established as a permanent thing.

Les Danovos in their novelty comedy act have one of the strongest acts of its kind ever presented here. An entire stage setting representing the interior of a cave resplendent with crystal and mother-of-pearl effect is discovered at the rise of the curtain. This cave is the home of the giant frog. In his flexible stunts Danova introduces many postures of his own creation. The Candy Kid supplies the humor in pantomime and on the removal of his wig reveals himself as the Candy Girl. A very good act well appreciated.

Mr. Petrick this week has another romantic song entitled, "A Sweeter Story Still," which he sings in his usual good style.

Mr. James A. Dunn in his singing, imitations and quaint stories did not lose time in engraving himself with his audience. His opening imitation went extremely well and the catchy quips together with the unbroken succession of imitative novelties carried the number to a successful climax. Mr. Dunn was generously encored.

Cushman and St. Claire in their original grotesque comedy offering scored heavily, part of the time the act being a veritable scream. Mr. Cushman's make-up as Happy Hoogan would convince one that he had just stepped out of the Chicago Examiner's comic edition. Of course the act is a burlesque and that's why the audience liked it. Miss St. Claire can hold her own in the avoirdupois class. In the closing skit when Mr. Cushman peels off about a dozen vests and stands in his diminutive dress he offers an uproarious contrast to his partner's generous physical proportions, which threw the audience in convulsions of laughter. They went like hot cakes and had to respond to many encores.

The feature act this week is the King Harmony Trio, who sing, dance and play in beautiful harmony. Their nifty appearance and costuming places them among the more refined acts. They confine their singing numbers to popular songs and do not make the mistake to force anything classic upon their hearers. Theirs is a delightful number and was well appreciated.

The bill closes with three sets of motion pictures. "A Trip Through Russia" shows scenes of the Port of Odessa and peasant life in the interior. "The Manual of a Perfect Gentleman" shows the folly of excessive politeness. "The Gypsies' Revenge" tells the story of love's tribulations and ultimate happiness.

Next Friday amateur night will be inaugurated. Amateur artists desiring to try out are requested to hand in their names at the manager's office.

PRIMARY LAW IN NEW JERSEY.

(New York Tribune.)

There can be no doubt that the general result in New Jersey will confirm friends of good government in their support of the primary system, though it may suggest to them methods of modifying it so as to make it more efficient.

ing shown the executive the hole he had dug for himself. It is well known that the Chicago tariff plank is regarded by western republicans generally as weak and evasive. It falls far short of what the Wisconsin republicans favor in the direction of tariff reduction. That being the case, if the governor, as the Free Press quotes him declaring, is "not a standpatter," why did he say that the enactment of even this mild Chicago plank would be regretted "within two years?" That remark put him a thousand miles behind the people of his state on the tariff revision question. Did he not mean what he said? and if he did not mean it, why did he say it?

We suggest that the governor, or the Free Press for him, come out frankly in a public statement, and either affirm the attack on the Chicago tariff plank, or apologize and recant. The question is, does the governor still maintain that, "If the tariff plank adopted at Chicago is made into law, you and I will be sorry for it within two years?"

It is further claimed that the words of the governor quoted by the Free Press were uttered after his attack on the Chicago tariff plank, quoted above, and that they were drawn from him in a desperate effort to mend the tactical blunder he had made in letting his real views be known. Mr. Blaine's sharp criticism of him as a "standpatter" has bly the reply is: "We are all for Bryan this year," or "I don't hear anything but Bryan," or "All our boys are going to vote for Bryan this time." Almost without exception these men answer questions about the governorship with a sneer at Hughes, and often with a naughty cuss-word.

We make no apology for quoting Mr. Wellman frequently. It is this way of his of getting down into the crowd and finding how the fellows who work feel about things, that gives us confidence in his predictions. This habit of "mixing" doubtless is the explanation of the accuracy Mr. Wellman has displayed in his political predictions, and that his verdict about New York has served to warn the republican leaders that they must "get busy" creates no surprise. Politicians of all parties have learned to take Mr. Wellman seriously.

THE QUESTION IS—

The Milwaukee Free Press, in defense of Governor Davidson against the charge that in the platform convention he assumed the attitude of a standpatter on the tariff issue, publishes what purports to be a portion of one of his speeches on the floor of the convention. We believe the Free Press quotes the governor accurately, although it does not quote him completely. The excerpt from his speech it offers is as follows:

"I have known the gentleman from Bosobel for a great many years. We are friends and have been for a long time. I want to say to him that neither he nor any other gentleman in this convention or in the state of Wisconsin can put me down as a standpatter."

"I want to say, and you know it, that for three hours last night I insisted upon a strong tariff plank in this platform, but it was impossible to agree on anything. It was just one thing or nothing—or a minority report. That is all. It was absolutely no use. I requested both sides to undertake to draft a tariff plank that would be satisfactory to all, and it could very easily have been done, without any doubt, but we could not get together."

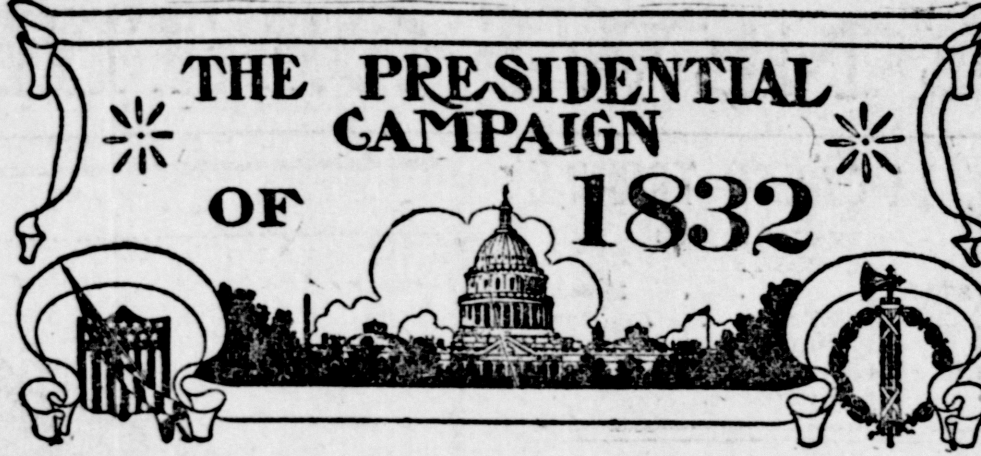

"Now I hardly think it is necessary for us here to go to a graveyard for the indorsement of the principles of the republican party of the state of Wisconsin on any question. I believe in the revision of the tariff on protective lines. Mr. Blaine, and I want to see it revised by his friends instead of his enemies. I do not want any impression to go out among the delegates of this convention, nor to the people of the state of Wisconsin, that I oppose the republican platform, in any shape or form, adopted at Chicago, or here, on that question."

"I am not a standpatter, Mr. Blaine. I never was considered such. I stand for a progressive policy in the national and in the state government, and never will I, as long as I stay in politics, take a backward step on what we have stood for in the past and will stand for in the future, that is for the benefit of all the people and the party in Wisconsin."

After publishing the above the Free Press calls upon all papers that have been "misled" into accusing the governor of a reactionary stand on the tariff, to recant. The Tribune wants to be fair with the governor. His personality is charming, he begets the good will of those who know him, and to commend him is easier than to adversely criticize him. However, before accepting as conclusive the claim that the above utterance exonerates the governor, we are impelled to ask a little further light. It is claimed by men who were present that the governor's attitude in the convention was well expressed by his emphatic declaration:

"If the tariff plank adopted at Chicago is made into law, you and I will be sorry for it within two years."

It is further claimed that the words of the governor quoted by the Free Press were uttered after his attack on the Chicago tariff plank, quoted above, and that they were drawn from him in a desperate effort to mend the tactical blunder he had made in letting his real views be known. The campaign of 1832 saw the first presidential nomination ever made by party convention system in the United States. The first term of President Jackson had been a most seriously turbulent one. It had been marked by the inauguration of the celebrated spoils system, through which Jackson rewarded his political friends with political offices. Jackson was the father of the spoils system as opposed to the merit system. Jackson had also fought the United States bank and this too became an issue in the campaign of 1832. Again the celebrated nullification ordinance was for the first time brought into national politics the question of states' rights and the privilege of secession. President Jackson had fearlessly and splendidly indorsed the proposition that the integrity of the Union should be eternally preserved. In view of the bitterness which had arisen over the nullification idea and the division which had followed the historic debate in the senate between Webster and Hayne it was natural that this also should have divided the country into highly partisan factions. Thus it was that the campaign of 1832 opened with more definitely divided issues before the people of the country than ever before.

And yet the personal popularity of President Jackson had but little waned. He was still the popular hero of the land and possessed an even greater power than had any of his presidential predecessors in their day. The followers of Jackson who were now beginning to be called the democratic party, held their convention at Baltimore and with practically unanimity re-nominated the general. Because of Jackson's quarrel with Vice President Calhoun and the latter's activity in the nullification movement, the democrats refused to re-nominate Calhoun for vice president, choosing in his stead Martin Van Buren of New York, who it will be remembered had four years previously suggested his delivering a large portion of New York's electoral vote to Jackson and who had entered Jackson's cabinet as secretary of state. Thus the democratic ticket became Jackson and Van Buren.

Meanwhile fraternalism had entered into national politics, due to the charge that the Masonic organization had abducted and murdered William Morgan, of Batavia, N. Y., who had been charged with betraying Masonic secrets. This allegation led to the formation of the Anti-Masonic party, the leading principle of which was hostility to the Masonic order and the exclusion of its members from public office. This party also held its national convention in Baltimore and nominated William Wirt for vice president.

A little later in the same year a convention representing the national wing of the republicans met at Baltimore and nominated Henry Clay of Kentucky for president, and John Sargeant of Pennsylvania for vice president.

While many of the voters did not approve of Jackson's measure, most of them admired his staunch patriotism and firmness of purpose and the success of his ticket was insured from the first. The electoral vote stood Jackson, 219; Clay, 49; Wirt, 7. South Carolina and Kentucky alone of the southern states repudiated Jackson. Vermont alone was carried by the Anti-Masons. Despite Jackson's overwhelming majority in the electoral college, his popular vote was greatly reduced from the campaign previous, and he carried many states by narrow margins. Jackson was quick to interpret the results of the election, however, as an indorsement of his policies and plans, and he at once proceeded with greater vigor than ever to the execution of his favorite ideas.

And positions and place
The candidate comes
With a smile on his face
His manner is bland
As he sees you afar
And hastens to hand
You a low-grade cigar.

How genial his phiz
As he grabs for your mitt
To show you who is
Or is going to be it
You seem to have met
With a friend to adore,
On whom you can bet
Several dollars or more.

He pours in your ear,
If you will but stand
And patiently hear
His vocals expand,
Some reasons that seem
Too good to be true
Why he would esteem
A ballot from you.

The candidate's smile
Is a picture urbane,
While compliments pile
In torrents like rain

One of the most notable characteristics of the guides in the Maine wilderness is their economy in the use of language, many of them hardly ever speaking except when spoken to, and having a disinclination for anything in the line of an extended conversation or discussion.

The story is told of a couple of guides of this sort who were employed together in a summer camp, and who only spoke to each other twice a day. In the morning it was "Good morning, Bill!" "Morning, Sam." And at night it was, "Good night, Bill!" "Good night, Sam."

One night, after the usual salutations, Sam volunteered the information: "Dead hoss up the gulch, Bill."

No response from Bill. The next day, after the "good nights" had been exchanged, Bill ventured upon a correction. Said he, "That ain't no dead hoss up the gulch; it's a mule."

There was no reply from Sam. Early the next morning he quietly arose, packed up his belongings and was about to leave the camp when Bill noticed him and said: "Matter, Sam? Where you goin'?"

"Goin' ter dig out," said Sam. "Too much talk and argument around here for me!"—Bohemian.

Col. Charles Coey, the president of the American Federation of Aero-Clubs, said the other day in Chicago of an aeronautical pilot:

"He is really too absent minded to pilot a balloon. He used, you know, to be a railroad conductor, but he had to give up the work; he was too absent minded for it, too."

"On his train one day, as he passed through the cars taking up the tickets, a joking passenger, instead of proffering his pastebord, solemnly proffered his forefinger."

"Never noticing anything out of the way, the conductor punched a little chunk out of the side of the finger and passed on."—Washington Star.

During these wander-years he had passed almost out of sight of Cynthia Charteris. For him she remained, at a distance, the best woman in the world, the one and only. He used to begin his letters to her: "My Dear Halo." But he spent very little time at Saffron Charteris, and most of that on the stubbles or in the coverts. Without a word between them, it was understood that Cynthia was disappointed. She lived in a county where partridges are regarded as the first importance. Briefly, it had been toupours perdrux with her. Edward, with a ponderous attempt at a joke, said she was "gun-shy." Edward, however, with all his limitations, commanded respect as an excellent landlord. He had written a monograph on East Anglian snob-sols, he was chairman of the Conservative Association, a County Councillor, and one of the soundest magistrates on the bench. In his heart of hearts he may have thought St. Partridge nearer and dearer to him than St. Paul, but that did not prevent his taking the Communion regularly upon the first Sunday of every month. From that night when she found Guy under the bed, Cynthia had planned for a successful future. All the best women build castles in Spain for others to live in; and Guy, with his good looks, his good manners, and his good brains, plus a large income, was obviously destined to occupy a palace. We knew that Cynthia (she was very young) had not begun by bending the twig in the direction of duty. Perhaps this explains her silence afterwards. She had striven to give the boy a good time; and she had been so successful that he acquired the habit of it. When he pursued pleasure—or what to him was pleasure—above the snow-line, she blamed herself. More, she said as much to Edward, who agreed with her exasperatingly: "You were far too kind, dear. I said nothing at the time, but you used to give him him bread-and-butter for his tea!" When Cynthia repeated this to Guy, he also said exasperatingly: "You darling old thing, I expect you did give me much butter!" After that she held her tongue.

Guy had finished his first cigar when he reached this point. Indeed he had smoked it to the last bitter inch, and a bad taste was in his mouth, from which he might have deduced a profitable moral lesson. Instead, he lit another, and ordered some more coffee. He had met Angela Tempest after his return from Manchuria. John had come up to him in the enclosure at Ascot, and had said: "I say, I want to introduce you to my wife. She's an angel!" And then Guy, looking at John's big, pink face, and knowing something of John's past, which had more than a tinge of pink in it, had replied, with a laugh: "An angel, by jove! What on earth made her marry you?" To this John replied solemnly: "Why, to reform me, of course! And, gad! she's done it, too!"

Of course, she hadn't! It is not easy to reform men like John Tempest. He had his good points—who hasn't—but continence was not one of them. Excessively good-natured, very generous, of a sanguine and most affectionate temperament, and enormously rich, he had run riot, with the cry behind him: "Ware marriage!" Having just sense and modesty enough to know that he was not likely to inspire either love or respect in the feminine bosom, he married Anzelo out of the schoolroom, being "intended" for her elder sister.

Guy had never believed Angela to be a party to what was called at the time a commercial transaction. It is inconceivable that she could have loved John; but doubtless she liked him, and, although barely seventeen, was able to measure the distance between a very rich and the very poor. As the fourth daughter of an impoverished Scotch baron, she was moved to understand that God had been good to her. Her mother, Barnogle, saw the finger of Providence; it pointed to the big house in Grosvenor Square, the forest in Scotland, the great abbey in Dukeries.

John led Guy up to his wife, and, with a curt: "You two will about hit it off," went back into the paddock, where one of his horses was being saddled for the Royal Hunt Cup.

But at first they didn't hit it off. That was the beginning of the mischief. Angela, admittedly, had every right to consider herself the prettiest bride of the season. Had she remained in miraculous ignorance of this self-evident fact, at least twenty men would have enlightened her twenty times a day. The smart boys buzzed about her from morning till night, and nearly all night. She told them that she "adored her stupid old John." Nobody believed this, except stupid old John himself. Guy, who had been John's fag at Eton, did not approve of these youngsters who drank themselves Angelicals, ate, cranked, and made exceedingly merry at John's expense and behind his back. Let it be added that Angela did not encourage the friars. The most audacious dared not say a word against John in her presence.

The Angelicals offered to make Guy a member of the Order. His too curt refusal was reported to Angela within half an hour. She smiled and remarked that Mr. Charteris seemed a sensible man; but inwardly she vowed to make a fool of him.

During the next year Guy was regarded as John's friend. This made the case very black when it was actually presented to the jury by McAllister K. C. Guy yachted with

THE STRUGGLE FOR KNOWLEDGE.

(Philadelphia Inquirer.) Reports from all over the country show that the attendance at public schools, private academies, colleges and universities is not only greater than ever, but larger proportionately than the increase in population. This is gratifying, considering that the hard times of last year have borne heavily upon so large a portion of the public.

It is gratifying because it shows an awakened interest in education in all its branches, because it shows that so many persons have learned that in the battle of life the fittest survive. It would be idle to say that school education is the sole equipment for the struggle, but it is the most available, and for almost every one the best. Some men and women have struggled to fame and success with little study of books, but almost all need knowledge as a foundation and the discipline which comes from school training.

It Was All Within.

A practical joker carried an onion in his pocket to the depot when bidding farewell to a young lady, and took a bite now and then to induce tears. Before the train departed he had eaten the entire onion. The young lady, perceiving the situation, remarked: "Ah, you have swallowed your grief!"—Harper's Weekly.

John, hunted with John, shot with John. Incidentally he came to know John passing well; and by the end of the year their friendship—if you care to use so fine a word for every work-a-day intercourse—had come to an end. Guy found out that John had not reformed. John deplored what he called a constitutional weakness said that he loved his wife devotedly and was prepared to make any sacrifice—(except one) rather than that she should find out how it was with him.

Guy began to wonder whether Angela had found out; a dangerous and absorbing speculation. Then Poppet was born. John's pride in Poppet kept him straight for a few months; the fall followed inevitably. Shortly after this Angela got a strange hold on to speak on Guy's throat. The hold is now forbidden. I believe, in ordinary wrestling between men, but some women use it. Technically, it is a hold that cannot be countered, and therefore very properly barred, as spoiling an otherwise interesting pastime. In the great game of love or friendship, as played between man and woman, this particular hold is not very easily described, although familiar enough to most of us. Briefly, a man is made to understand that he is absolutely necessary to the comfort and happiness of a woman who belongs to another man. Once in such tells he can twiddle his thumbs for ever and try to resolve the ancient riddle: "Is it better to love or be loved?"

Nervous Break-Down

Nerve energy is the force that controls the organs of respiration, circulation, digestion and elimination. When you feel weak, nervous, irritable, sick, it is often because you lack nerve energy, and the process of rebuilding and sustaining life is interfered with. Dr. Miles' Nervine has cured thousands of such cases, and will we believe benefit if not entirely cure you. Try it.

"My nervous system gave away completely, and left me on the verge of the grave. I tried skilled physicians but got no permanent relief. I got so bad I had to give up my business. I began taking Dr. Miles' Restorative Nervine. In a few days I was much better. I continued to improve until entirely cured. I am in business again, and never miss an opportunity to recommend this remedy."—MRS. W. L. BURKE, Myrtle Creek, Oregon.

Your druggist sells Dr. Miles' Nervine, and we authorize him to return price of first bottle (only) if it fails to benefit you.

John, hunted with John, shot with John. Incidentally he came to know John passing well; and by the end of the year their friendship—if you care to use so fine a word for every work-a-day intercourse—had come to an end. Guy found out that John had not reformed. John deplored what he called a constitutional weakness said that he loved his wife devotedly and was prepared to make any sacrifice—(except one) rather than that she should find out how it was with him.

Guy began to wonder whether Angela had found out; a dangerous and absorbing speculation. Then Poppet was born. John's pride in Poppet kept him straight for a few months; the fall followed inevitably. Shortly after this Angela got a strange hold on to speak on Guy's throat. The hold is now forbidden. I believe, in ordinary wrestling between men, but some women use it. Technically, it is a hold that cannot be countered, and therefore very properly barred, as spoiling an otherwise interesting pastime. In the great game of love or friendship, as played between man and woman, this particular hold is not very easily described, although familiar enough to most of us. Briefly, a man is made to understand that he is absolutely necessary to the comfort and happiness of a woman who belongs to another man. Once in such tells he can twiddle his thumbs for ever and try to resolve the ancient riddle: "Is it better to love or be loved?"

ST. JAMES CLUB PLANS FINE CHURCH IMPROVEMENT

STATIONS OF CROSS PAINTED

Artist Who Painted First Existing Death of St. James Also Puts Other Paintings on Walls

St. James club of the North side is considering a plan to raise $2,000 for the installation of a handsome marble altar in St. James church. The plan is still in the embryo, but will probably be crystallized this winter, and plans made to secure the funds.

The decoration of the remodeled church has practically been completed. The decorator who painted the picture of the death of St. James also painted stations of the cross in original designs. The decorations cost about $1,800, the St. James picture being $400. For the same work a Chicago artist asked $1,200.

CLOTHES AND THE MAN

IT'S all well enough to say, clothes don't make the man, but poor clothes come pretty near disguising him.

If you care for appearances—if you value the good impression that right action carries—you want to see the new Kuppenheimer styles for fall and winter. We're showing them.

Right down to the minute—full of snap and vim. Just the suit or overcoat you've been looking for is here—with countless other models to select from.

Whether you buy or do not buy our clothes, you get the same welcome.

We say good-bye as cheerfully and as heartily to the man who leaves our store without buying, as we say good-morning to him when he comes in. We mean it, too.

And we'll see him again—if he's a thinking man, because sooner or later, every prudent, quality-seeking wearer of men's clothes will come to the point of wearing clothes made by The House of Kuppenheimer.

The new styles,—we're showing them now—are more tempting than these famous clothes have ever been before.

Has Seen Efficient Service.
The car cost $12,000, has been in existence for nearly two years, has traveled through more than twenty states, and has done practical and beneficial work in at least half a dozen states. Since June of this year the car has covered more than 25,000 miles, and 500 masses have been celebrated in it, besides other missionary services and hundreds of sermons have been given in it.

The car arrived in La Crosse early this morning. All along the way here, at the different cities where the car stopped, thousands have visited it, and Rev. W. D. O'Brien, the diocesan director of the car, was kept busy from morning to night answering the questions which were put to him by people of every religious creed.
To Develop Missionary Spirit.
The Catholic Church Extension society, which maintains this charred car, was founded in June, 1907, in Chicago. The principal object of the society is to develop the missionary spirit in the clergy and people of the Catholic church in the United States, to assist in the erection of churches and schools and parish residences in places that are too poor to provide them; to support priests in poverty-stricken districts, and to send the comforts of religion to districts far removed from religious influences.
Prominent among those interested in the work of the organization are the following: Most Rev. J. E. Quigley, archbishop of Chicago, the chairman of the board of governors; Most Rev. S. G. Messmer, archbishop of Milwaukee; Most Rev. W. H. O'Connell, archbishop of Boston; Marquis Martin Maloney, Philadelphia; Mr. R. Dean, Chicago, president of Pullman company; Arthur Preuss, St. Louis "Review"; Judge Morgan O'Brien, New York, and Mr. Andrew Petry, New York, who donated the car.

Among the persons who visited the car a few days ago, was an old gentleman and his daughter. The man had not been inside a church for years, until he stepped into the chapel car. When he returned home the old gentleman said to his daughter, "Nellie, I have not been to church in twenty years, God help me, but when these priests bring churches right up to your nose, I guess I'll have to go."

Expressed Bishop's Sentiments.
The car not so long since employed a negro porter to do all the needful services of cooking and cleaning for the missionaries. Horace was a chef of no mean order. He had also a gifted command of English, that in trying moments was neither plous, nor suited to the atmosphere of a chapel car. Bishop Hennessey, of

OPENING RECEPTION.
Miss Cecilia Maloney, manager of the Southwestern Wisconsin Viatic Office, desires to announce that the office is now located at 511 Main street, second floor. On Wednesday afternoon, 7th inst., Miss Maloney will be "at home" to the ladies of La Crosse in her new quarters. About 3 o'clock an informal talk on "The Higher Physical Life for Women" will be given by Mrs. Helen R. Blenis of St. Paul and Miss Estelle Solon will sing. Ladies are cordially invited.

Kansas, who was on the car recently was aware of this linguistic failing of Horace. One night the car was jolted by a freight train, and the bishop was thrown from out his berth on the floor, and being only a human bishop he was at first annoyed, but then laughing as he sat on the floor he said, "Please take Horace fifteen yards from the car, and have him express the sentiment which the dignity of the bishop will not allow him to do."

In western Kansas not long ago a sheriff took the car for a buffet, and demanded of Horace a bottle of beer. "Beah, beah!" ejaculated the astonished Horace; "why man this am a church." The sheriff slammed the door, muttering condemnations on a railroad that had a church on the end of its train instead of a buffet car.

The chapel car will remain in La Crosse today and this evening, when it will leave for South Dakota to continue its missionary work. Visitors are welcome to the car at any time.

spread into Hudson. It is the biggest thing in the politics of those two counties, which together are bigger in wealth and voting power than all the other nineteen counties.

In other words, Essex and Hudson counties constitute rather a bigger share of New Jersey than New York and Kings counties do of New York state. If you can't think of a thoroughly revolutionary movement in New York getting so strong that it could overturn Tammany in New York and both the republican and democratic machines in Brooklyn, you will have an idea of the importance of this "new idea" movement, in Jersey. Then if you will transplant the Jersey gerrymander to York state, and figure how it would seem to New York city to have only one senator in the legislature at Albany, you will begin to see how these Jersey reformers feel. If the Essex county reformers—one-third of New Jersey being in Essex county—win, they get one twenty-first of the senate. If Essex and Hudson should win together they would get two-twenty-firsts of the senate, to represent two-thirds of the state. It's not much wonder that the gorge rises up in these Essex and Hudson progressives when they realize their impotence before such an organization as that.

So much for the ground plan of Jersey politics. Now it happens that Essex and Hudson counties border on New York state, and are really only suburbs of the metropolis. They contain the residences of vast numbers of people who do business in Manhattan; they are also the seats of the largest industries of Jersey. And finally, in these counties are located the immense terminals of the railroads which bring the whole continent to its metropolis.

The Railroad Puestion Again
These terminals represent almost untold millions of values. New Jersey being a comfortably controlled state, it was many years before anybody realized that the railroad property didn't pay anything like a fair share of taxes. The octopus-incubating legislature at the capital was naturally friendly to the railroads. Their taxes were so distributed that the great, populous counties of Essex and Hudson got practically no taxes for the immense railroad properties they contained, and for which they furnished protection and all the benefits of orderly government.

Mark Pagan, who as mayor of Jersey City made a national reputation, started the movement for fair taxes. He began his fight when Colby was a member of the lower house of the legislature. The bill for equal taxation went to Colby's committee and there was smothered. They say Colby didn't even vote at it at that time. He hadn't got over being regular; hadn't come to realize what the Jersey political system meant.

When that bill was killed Mark Pagan issued a statement that made the organization feel as if the water had spilled the coffee pot in its lap. He was a republican, but he charged corrupt alliances between the state republican committee and the railroads; he roasted Governor Murphy, and handed bricks to the state leaders. The sensation was so great that the legislature prolonged its session and arranged for a commission to investigate the equal tax question. Colby was not for the reform—not then. He said he would rather see the state house burn over his head than report that bill—so they tell now. But shortly afterward he saw a light and set out to be a reformer of the Fagan type.

Defies Party Machine
Colby announced himself a candidate for the state senate on a reform platform, and Carl Lentz, then republican boss of Essex county, decided that he wouldn't do. Colby went it alone. He defied the machine, which was about as promising a proposition at that time in Jersey as Theodore Roosevelt's barbers to seize the reins of government.

from the good right hand that has been famous for its skill with the big stick. Colby announced the New Idea; namely, to have the people govern themselves instead of being ruled by the bosses. It was shocking but its very novelty in oligarchy Jersey caused a community naturally fond of excitement to try it on. Why not? Jersey, as a suburb of New York, has felt all the sensations it can get at Coney Island or on Broadway or in Wall street. The idea of ruling itself appealed to the ennobled old state, and it woke up at once.

There was a campaign for the nomination, hot enough to make Beelzebub wish for an ammonia refrigerator plant, and Colby won. Lentz was retired from politics to a civic Saint Helena, where he has resided ever since. Colby went to the legislature with a lot of prestige and a pocketful of bills. There were equal tax bills, direct primary bills, popular designation of senators' bills and a bill for repeal of the iniquitous voters' liability act. This last by the way is a separate story of how machine government works.

Suggested for Governor.
Anyhow, in the legislature that session Colby had the democrats, with Fagan and George Record, another reformer, on his side. A doctored equal taxation bill passed, which wasn't an equal taxation bill at all; but it was some advance. The main fight was over the public utilities commission bill, modelled after the New York law which Hughes forced to passage. A bogus bill passed; the next year Colby got it considerably improved; and all the time the organization's power was crumbling before this new attack. The New Idea folks wanted Colby to run for governor, but he put away the crown, knowing there wasn't a ghost of a chance. He came out instead for another term in the senate, and the old organization got ready to make the fight of its life.

Colby Returns to Senate.
Thomas L. Raymond was named by the machine against Colby. The organization arranged to have Raymond preside at the opening rally of the Jersey campaign this year, when Senator Burrows talked. The Colbyites protested against such a manifestation of preference as between two candidates, apparently coming straight from the national committee. But the national committee declined to interfere, and the arrangement stood. The Colby crowd was bitter than ever.

At the primary, after a magnificent fight, Colby won. The Newark organist beat him in that city, but in the Oranges, mainly inhabited by commuters who do business in New York, Colby ran like a dog with a can, and won.

New Idea People "Get Busy."
In Hudson county the New Idea people have been busy, also. They made a fight for control of the republican county committee at the primaries last spring and were overwhelmingly beaten. They nosed into things in most irregular fashion, and got twenty-five election officials indicted for stuffing ballot boxes. The cases against most of these are still pending, a demurrer having gone to the supreme court. During the trial of one of these cases, in the lower court, it was freely charged that the prosecutor was not trying to bring out the evidence or to secure conviction. The situation became so rank that George Record finally rose in the court room, not being in any way connected with the case, addressed the judge, and dramatically charged that the prosecuting attorney was not trying to win, but rather to lose his cases.

While Colby was gaining his senatorial nomination, Record ran for the congressional nomination and was badly beaten. So there is thoroughly going soreness all round. Last fall in Jersey City Fagan was beaten by the machine, which threw the place to a democrat rather than let him win. His followers likewise are ready to knife anything in sight.

Bosses Are Against Roosevelt.
One more interesting aspect of Jersey politics. Theodore Roosevelt probably is weaker in friends and influence in New Jersey than in any other state in the union. So is William Jennings Bryan.

ELECTRIC THEATRE

Why? Because in the official home of the octopus a constant educational propaganda has been at work to poison the mind of the public against such troublesome persons. Most of the Jersey press—this shouldn't be alluded to, however, in Gath, nor mentioned if you happen to be invited out to tea in Askelon—is under influence of the interests. Essex and Hudson counties are more independent, simply because they are so close to New York, and so largely inhabited by New York people, that the New York newspapers have the chief circulation, and nearly all of them have for years been fighting the Jersey machine. But all the old bosses—Dryden, Kean, McCarter, Dave Baird, Sam Dickinson, Dan Voorhees and the rest of them—are haters of Roosevelt, just as ex-Senator Smith and the democratic bosses have no use for Bryan.

There is one shining exception to the rule of "interest" control of the press. This is the Newark News, which has long been gallantly fighting for better things in Jersey. There is a great element of Jersey republicans who believe reform must be secured, even if it involve retiring the republican party from power in the state. How strong this sentiment is may be gauged from the fact that at the last gubernatorial election the republicans had only about 7,100 majority for Fort, while their gubernatorial majority three years earlier had been 55,000. And the fight was entirely on state issues.

New Jersey for Taft.
Nobody can tell how far these local complications will affect the national result this year. New Jersey is normally a decidedly republican state, and will probably go for Taft by a majority so big as to satisfy his most enthusiastic campaign manager. But in local affairs Jersey is due for some big times in the next few years. This man Colby is headed toward the senate or the governor's chair, if he keeps his head and doesn't make any bad mistakes. The days of unquestioned machine rule are ended.

Industry is the watch dog that keeps the wolf from the door.

DON'T DO IT

Don't try to doctor yourself if in-dissolved. You'll be the gainer if you see your family physician at once. He will get you over the spell quicker and safer than you could. He is trained to do it, and can and will do it. If he prescribes for you, I will appreciate your confidence, to let me prepare that prescription. I will do it, so your physician and yourself will be pleased with the result. I can and will do it, and my prices have always been reasonable, or I would not have gotten over 106,000 prescriptions to fill.

MINNESOTA AND THE NORTHWEST STEALS THE FUNDS; COMMITTS SUICIDE

EMARDO BANKER EMBEZZLED
THE BANK'S MONEY
IS SHORT ABOUT $20,000

Suicide had Stolen Funds of Farmers' Elevator Company and Repenting, Takes His Life

GRAND FORKS, N. D., Oct. 6.—John Hemsted, cashier of the State Bank of Emaro, was a defaulter, and it was because of this fact that he took his own life in Grand Forks. His embezzlements may reach a total of $20,000.

The amount of the shortage in the Farmers' Elevator company of Emaro has not been established, but the estimates run as high as $13,000. Hemsted was secretary and treasurer of the company and kept its funds in the bank of which he was cashier. The account was overdrawn $3,000, and it is believed that in the neighborhood of $10,000 should have been shown to the credit of the concern. He was bonded and the company will lose nothing.

Hemsted also used the funds of the bank unlawfully. The amount of the bank shortage is not known. As the agent of land firms, Hemsted returned no reports of collections made on contracts this year, although it is known that he was paid.

A deed transferring half a section of land from Hemsted to his wife, Edna Hemsted, for $8,000, was drawn up on account of unpaid taxes until after his death.

IDENTIFY VICTIMS OF BIG EXPLOSION

SIoux FALLS, S. D., Oct. 6.—There is no doubt now that the two boys who were killed in the terrific explosion of powder and dynamite in this city Saturday were Otto Wehling, aged fourteen, son of Alderman and Mrs. Robert Wehling, and Charles Weeks, about the same age, son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Weeks. Mr. Weeks is caretaker of the grounds of the Sioux Falls Tennis association.

The two powder houses were each about 12 by 14 feet in size. One was a steel building while the other was a frame structure, covered by sheet steel one-sixteenth of an inch in thickness. In the two buildings were 1,100 kegs of black powder, each one containing twenty-five pounds; 2,000 pounds of dynamite, besides several cans of rifle powder. The loss of the Larson Hardware company, which owned the two buildings and their contents, is placed at $2,000.

HANSBROUGH WILL DELIVER SPEECHES

FARGO, N. D., Oct. 6.—Senator Hansbrough, who has spent the last six weeks among the Minnesota lakes fishing and recuperating, came from Minneapolis on the Taft special and remained over in Fargo a couple of days. His health was greatly improved.

The senator has placed himself at the disposal of the republican state committee and will fill a number of speaking dates during the campaign. Chairman Johnson called upon him at his hotel to talk over the details of the senator's itinerary.

As between Marshall and Johnson the senator said he did not think it was necessary for him to make a declaration as to his choice, but as to his own political fortunes the senator did not hesitate to say that he would be a candidate for the United States senate at the republican primaries a year from next June.

TAKES POISON TO END HIS TROUBLES

ST. PAUL, Minn., Oct. 5.—Frank B. Morris, clerk of the Merchants hotel, who was taken to the city hospital by the police, Sunday morning suffering from poison, partially recovered consciousness and told the physicians that he intended to end his life because he had been threatened with the loss of his position because of intemperate habits. He is in a very serious condition and the physicians are still uncertain as to his chances of recovery.

N. DAKOTA LAWYER BURNS TO DEATH

PROMINENT ATTORNEY LOSES
LIFE IN FIRE

WAS OVERCOME BY SMOKE

Prominent Barister Makes Desperate
Attempt to Escape From House,
But All in Vain

MINOT, N. D., Oct. 6.—Col. J. C. Marcy, 77 years old, once one of the most brilliant attorneys in the northwest, and whose name is recorded in many supreme court records in the astorian states, as well as in North Dakota, was burned to death at his home at Sixth and Reishus streets, in this city.

The fire was caused by the upsetting of a lamp, which set fire to the bed clothes. Col. Marcy made a desperate attempt to escape, but was overcome by the smoke and flames and fell face downward near the bed. He was dead before the fire department arrived.

J. M. O'Connell, claim agent of the Great Northern railroad, was seriously burned in attempting to rescue the aged man.

Col. Marcy was a pioneer of North Dakota and Ward county. He retired from active practice some years ago and was living alone.

He was once assistant attorney general in the prosecution of violations of the liquor law and played a prominent part in the early history of North Dakota.

LOST IN WOODS; IS RAVING MANIAC

DULUTH, Minn., Oct. 6.—Insane with terror as a result of being lost in the woods, Henry Johnson was brought to Duluth strapped hand and foot to a carriage seat, a raving maniac.

Johnson and Henry Erickson were working together building a house at Island Lake. Johnson is said to have become intoxicated and started to walk to Duluth. He lost his way in the woods. Erickson started out to find him. He came across Johnson playing in the middle of the road and showing every sign of insanity. Erickson attempted to get him into the carriage, but he refused to get in. Three settlers happened along and they assisted Erickson in getting the maniac into the carriage. He was then strapped fast to the seat, his hands and feet being tied. In this way he was brought to Duluth.

MINNESOTA TOWNS HAVE BAD FIRES

WELLS, Minn., Oct. 6.—Fire destroyed the brick mill of the Wells Flour Milling company; capacity, 1,000 barrels daily, and one frame elevator belonging to the same company. The loss is estimated at $80,000, partly insured.

The local fire company did valiant work, and with difficulty saved another flour mill, several elevators, the railroad shops, lumber yards, some smaller factories and many residences.

The fact that there was no wind probably saved the entire business and manufacturing part of the city.

Little Falls Has Bad Fire.
LITTLE FALLS, Minn., Oct. 6.—Fire here destroyed about $40,000 worth of property. The blaze started in Dana Brown's dry line barn, which it destroyed. Then it razed the Nelson studio. J. W. Berg's hardware store then was attacked and destroyed, entailing a loss of $30,000. Brown's loss is placed at about $4,000 and Nelson's at $1,000.

REPORTS ARE FALSE.
SIoux CITY, Iowa, Oct. 6.—Wholesale creditors in this city of J. C. Cantonwine, of Armour, S. D., trying to force him into involuntary bankruptcy, allege that his reported robbery of $35,000 from his store about two weeks ago, was without foundation in fact, and was reported for the purpose of laying the basis for a compromise with his creditors, after he had given a mortgage to the International airvester company, making them a preferred creditor.

The case will be fought out in federal court, and the Schenckberg company, the Sioux City Iron works and the H. A. Baker company of this city will push the proceedings against him.

WOMAN SHOTS TO AID HER HUSBAND

ST. PAUL, Minn., Oct. 5.—Rosalia Kleinberger, 642 Thomas street, assumed the role of defender of her home when she found her husband losing a battle with Ernest and William Koch, son and father, about the location of a fence line. She ran into the house, returned with a 30-calibre revolver and fired upon the Kochs, wounding the aged man in the left side.

The bullet passed through the body and emerged at the back. It is feared that the stomach or bowels have been pierced.

Four bottles of Foley's Kidney Remedy cleared my complexion, cured my backache and the irregularities disappeared, and I can now attend to business every day, and recommend Foley's Kidney Remedy to all sufferers as it cured me after the doctors and other remedies had failed. No Change in Standing Today as Votes Were Not Counted Monday
 --The Count UP TO MONDAY AT 9 A. M.

THIS SPECIAL OFFER STARTS MONDAY, OCT. 5th and will continue for two weeks ending Saturday night, Oct. 17. You have two weeks to get up these clubs of five and it is now entirely in your power to win the prize. Do not delay thinking votes at the last of this contest will be worth more than they are now but take our word and honor that THIS IS THE BIGGEST OFFER that will be made.

We would like every contestant who does not fully understand this offer to call us up or come down to the office at their first convenience and we will fully explain the matter to them. Now is the time to feather your nest and do not delay because you will not have another opportunity to do so. Remember also you receive a 10 per cent commission on all new business turned into this office. You can easily make money during your spare time. Of course, if you win a pony and outfit, you will not receive a commission. We want everybody to be satisfied, and with that end in view, have decided on the above course. Now is the time to get busy.

For the benefit of the contestants on the north side we have installed a ballot box where they can deposit their votes. You can also pay your subscriptions at this office and receive special ballots, thereby it is not necessary for you to make a long trip down to this office. Of course we want all the contestants to come down here that can as we wish to meet all our little friends and take them out riding whenever it is possible.

EXTRA VOTES!

Votes are worth more between October 5 and October 17 than at any other time of the Contest

Remember this is the BIGGEST OFFER

BOARD DECIDES NOT TO PAY DOCTOR BILL

HOLDS CITY IS NOT RESPONSIBLE FOR GIRL'S INJURY

ASK $84, 705 FROM THE CITY

Demands for Expenses This Year is $2,151.00 More Than was Granted Last Season

The school board last evening decided to advertise for fuel to the extent of 150 cords for the heating of the school buildings.

The question as to whether the school board was to be held responsible for the injury of Helga Larson last June when she was hit on the head with a heavy iron ball that was being used as a plaything by one of the boys at a north side school. The school board decided they were not to be held responsible for any such accidents. The parents of the injured girl are poor people and asked that the city pay the doctor bill. If the city refuses a suit may ensue.

The board has decided that school will end December 23 for the Christmas vacation, and that the new term will commence January 4. By shortening the vacation the schools will close on June 18 instead of June 25. This was done principally to enable some of the teachers to attend the summer schools that open the first of June.

The principal matter and undoubtedly the most important considered was the estimate of the expense of running the public schools for the coming year. The estimate amounted to $131,950 and the council will be asked to appropriate $84,705 or $2,151.00 more than last year. This increase is on account of the new manual training department which includes sewing, bench work and cooking.

A class in trigonometry may be started at the high school in case the number of pupils enrolled for the coming year. The estimate amounted to $131,950 and the council will be asked to appropriate $84,705 or $2,151.00 more than last year. This increase is on account of the new manual training department which includes sewing, bench work and cooking.

On October 23 schools will be dismissed according to action taken by the board, so that the teachers can attend the Western Wisconsin Teachers' association which meets here on October 23 and 24.

Woman Interrupts Political Speaker A well dressed woman interrupted a political speaker recently by continually coughing. If she had taken Foley's Honey and Tar it would have cured her cough quickly and expelled the cold from her system. The genuine Foley's Honey and Tar contains no opiates and is in a yellow package. Refuse substitutes. O. T. Erhart.

JOKE IS ON EDITOR OF THE OMAHA BEE

IMPUTED TO BRYAN REPUBLICAN TARIFF PLANK

"MEANS SIMPLY NOTHING"

Truly Characterized, Says the Nebraskan—More Shot for Presidential Activity

OMAHA, Oct. 5.—Bryan began laughing at 7 this morning and is at it yet.

He says that Victor Rosewater, head of the republican publicity bureau and editor of The Omaha Bee, has been stung.

Yesterday Editor Rosewater printed what apparently he supposed was an extract from a Bryan speech. He roasted it, shredded it, and then blew it up with editorial nitroglycerine.

Today it develops that the supposed Bryan excerpt really was a section of the trust plank adopted by the republicans at Chicago and on which Taft is running.

The offending paragraph. The clause of the republican platform, credited to Bryan and roasted to a frazzle by Rosewater, follows:

"In all tariff legislation the true principle is best maintained by the imposition of such duties as will equal the difference between the cost of production at home and abroad, together with reasonable profit to American industries."—Quotation from Republican national platform that Omaha editor thought was from Bryan speech.

Bryan says, jocularly, that it's an outrage to charge him with fritting part of the republican platform. He thinks Rosewater displayed unusual intelligence in seeing the faults of his own party's principles.

Calls it a Rich Find

"This is a rich find," said Mr. Bryan. "It shows how absurd the republican platform looks to a republican when the republican has a chance to look at it in a disinterested way. When Mr. Rosewater thought that the language quoted was taken from a speech of mine, he could see how ridiculous the language was. I hope that his opinion of the language will not change when he finds that he was shooting at his own platform instead of at me. The amusing blunder of the Omaha Bee suggests a new diversion for the campaign. Let the democrats accuse me of using various sections from the republican platform and from Mr. Taft's speeches and see how the republicans will attack me."

As to Presidential Activity.

After Bryan had finished with the Omaha editor he took a shot at President Roosevelt by dictating the following statement condemnatory of the president's political activities in the campaign:

"When I criticized the president for using an office which belonged to all the people as a party asset, I did not know that I was using language so much like that which had been employed before, but my attention has been called to an editorial in the New York Tribune of Oct. 25, 1882. It criticizes President Arthur for taking part in the campaign in behalf of the republican ticket and says:

"Why should he assist in the campaign of any party? He is the president of the whole country, and not the manager of elections in any part of it."

"This is so completely in harmony with my criticism that I am glad to indorse it, although it was not brought to my attention until today."

PREPARE ESTIMATE OF MOVING BATHS

PUBLIC FROLIC PLACE TO BE IN PARK LAGOON

WOULD ELIMINATE DANGER

Bath Then Could Be Used Early and Late and Would Prove More Profitable to the City, Too

The board of public works will have an estimate made of the cost of moving the public bath house from its present location on the river bank to the lagoon south of the bridge in rectilinear park. The cost of moving will not be very great and the benefit derived will be large.

The greatest advantage of having the bath located in the lagoon will be the comparative safety of the place. There will be no danger of bathers being carried out in the current and drowned. While there have been very few cases of drowning the danger still remains, water in the lagoon the water will be practically stationary which will make the bathing much better. There will be considerable expense in making the change but not enough to warrant keeping the bath in the old quarters. The loss on keeping the baths up amounts to about $60 a year and in a case of high water like during the past spring the bath cannot be opened until late in the season when the summer is half over. With the bath in the lagoon the season can start whenever the weather permits and undoubtedly the receipts will be enough larger to make considerable difference so that the change will be a profitable as well as an advantageous one.

A LA FOLLETTE-ALDRICH STUDY

and few persons will care to oppose him. He feels strong within himself and his motive-mental temperament makes him strong and enduring. His mind is as sharp as that of an eagle when it is darting down on its prey, and he does not mince matters when he has to cross swords with anyone in an argument. His eyes are keen and his eyebrows indicate scientific capacity. His nose shows economy; his lips sensitiveness; his chin stern resolve; while his height of head indicates will power and determination of mind. Cautiousness shows itself to be largely developed on the side head, and executiveness is strongly represented above and around his ears.

La Follette.

Memory of historical events is a remarkable characteristic of Senator La Follette, as well as memory of persons whom he meets. He blends many of the vital elements with his mental powers, and shows some of the characteristics of his mother, or his father's mother, with the strong manliness of his father, or his mother's father; hence his persuasive and magnetic influence over men he meets for the first time, and his ability to hold and sway men's minds.

He has the strength and vigor of the Huguenots combined with the pliability of the Frenchman of today, and his strength of mind has more of the winsomeness of persuasion in it than the arbitrary dictation of the English. He carries reason with him and thus he is forceful in argument and emphatic in debate.

His width of forehead, along the upper region of his anterior lobe, is well developed, and gives him pliability and versatility of mind. His ideas are well thought out, and his arguments sustained with practical reasons.

His intuitions generally lead him aright, and hence he is able to judge

USE OF MONEY IS BLOT ON WISCONSIN

SENATORSHIP MADE A MERCHANDISED PREFERENCE

PAPERS ATTACK THE SYSTEM

Neenah and Menasha News Say Cook is Fortunate in Being Spared Humiliation of Wearing Such Diadem

NEENAH, Wis., Oct. 5.—The Neenah and Menasha Daily News (republican), the home paper of S. A. Cook, candidate for the republican nomination for United States senator, printed a remarkable editorial in its issue of Saturday on the expenditure of money in the recent primary. It calls attention to the fact that up to Aug. 1 Mr. Cook had spent about $7,000, "a comparatively moderate sum of money" for a campaign that lasted months. The News then says: "At the beginning of August there was every reason to believe Mr. Cook would receive the nomination he had been called to seek. This fact became so apparent to Senator Stephenson, who wanted the nomination for the second term, that the coffers of his wealth were opened, and the coveted preferment reduced to a rich man's tit-bit of luxury, instead of being reserved as honorable opportunity for rendering the people a representative stewardship that would conform to original design and recognize the dignity and importance involved."

"Senator Stephenson had the money to so reduce it. It was put into the campaign with an abandon that fairly debauched the voting power of the state. During the last month, it appears, Mr. Cook was compelled by Senator Stephenson's course either to expend money in sums that would shame him or drop out of the contest. Mr. Cook spent $30,000. Mr. Hutton spent more than $26,000. Mr. McGovern spent more than $11,000. Senator Stephenson, the successful candidate, has not told the people how large a sum he expended. That does not matter."

"Senator Stephenson won the nomination, and in winning put a blot on the history of Wisconsin political endeavor that can no more be washed out than could the blood stains from the hands of Shakespeare's Lady Macbeth."

"When the whole shameful story is considered, it may be said in truth that Mr. Cook is to be congratulated because he has spared the humility of wearing a merchandised preferment."

"The senatorial diadem, under such a condition, can display no other jewel than shameless ambition. No honor can be brought to the state by its clouded luster. He who wears it will live in history under the shadow of eternal rebuke."

STUDENTS AND BOYS OF MADISON CLASH

UNIVERSITY TOWN SCENE OF WILD DISORDERS

YOUNG MEN ARE STABBED

In Rowdy Clash Two Boys are Stabbed—Others Seriously Wounded—Fight Unparalleled

MADISON, Wis., Oct. 5.—(Special.)—The most serious clash in the history of the city occurred here when the town boys and some of the students engaged in a riot.

Hand to hand encounters were going on everywhere and two of the town boys were stabbed while a university man, William Dineen, was struck over the head with a club.

The varsity quarterback, "Keckie" Moll, was taken for a town boy and would have been seriously injured but for the timely arrival of a fellow student, who mixed into the fight. One boy, Lew Schmidt, of Monroe, was arrested charged with disorderly conduct.

The trouble is said to have arisen over a football practice game when some of the town boys were ordered to leave the field. This they refused to do and the affairs resulted in blows. A mob of town boys was organized and every university man was severely handled who happened along the down town streets. The Wisconsin men then organized in a body and when the factions met a riot in which stones and bricks figured freely took place.
